

BY HANDS NOW KNOWN

The Civil Rights and Restorative Justice Digital Archive

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 7, 2022

Join us for the launch of the Burnham-Nobles Digital Archive and Professor Margaret Burnham's new book,
*By Hands Now Known: Jim Crow's Legal Executioners

Northeastern University School of Law's Civil Rights and Restorative Justice Project will host an all-day hybrid conference to mark the launch of the Burnham-Nobles Digital Archive, an unprecedented, publicly accessible digital collection of 1,000 cases of racially motivated violence targeted against African Americans in the Jim Crow South. We will also celebrate the CRRJ students whose work led to the creation of the Archive.

Professor Margaret Burnham will offer a brief reading from her acclaimed new book, By Hands Now Known: Jim Crow's Legal Executioners.

SPEAKERS INCLUDE:

- Margaret Burnham, Northeastern University School of Law
- Daniel Domingues da Silva, Rice University
- Hank Klibanoff, Emory University
- Evan Lewis, Legacy Coalition
- Monica Martinez, University of Texas/Austin
- Melissa Nobles, Massachusetts Institute of Technology
- Christina Simko, Williams College
- Tsione Wolde-Michael, Center for Restorative History, Smithsonian Institute

REGISTER: eventregistration.northeastern.edu/CRRJ-ArchiveLaunch2022

crrj.org

CO-SPONSORED BY NORTHEASTERN UNIVERSITY

School of Law
Office of the Provost

Library
Office of Diversity,
Equity and Inclusion

SCAN TO REGISTER